III. Inland telegrams sent over the Imperial Telegraph and Licensed Telegraph Systems on official business of Indian States will be accepted and transmitted throughout India as Raj telegrams, but as in the case of inland State messages as defined in the Indian Post and Telegraph Guide, they will not be allowed priority over private messages of the same class. The charges must be paid for in Service Stamps or in cash or on the deposit account system, as laid down in the Rules in the Post and Telegraph Guide.

IV. All Raj telegrams, to whomsoever addressed, and all private telegrams addressed to Rulers or officials of Indian States by official designation only will be redirected to any part of India by telegraph free of charge according to the provisions of the Indian Post and Telegraph Guide.

V. Telegraphic abbreviated addresses.....

VI. (i) Ruling Princes who are members of the Chamber of Princes in their own right and their ministers have the privilege of sending Clear the Line messages between telegraph offices within their own territories.

(ii) Ruling Princes who are members of the Chamber of Princes in their own right have the privilege of sending Clear the Line Messages to addressees outside their State territories subject to the following conditions:-

(a) that the privilege is exercised only on the occasion of a grave emergency arising in or affecting the State and during such emergency;

(b) that it is personal to the Ruler himself;

(c) that it is confined to telegrams addressed to the Viceroy, the Governor of any Province, the Political Secretary, a Local Government or a Political Officer.

(iii) A Ruler who is a member of the Chamber of Princes in his own right may, when absent from his State in India, send from any telegraph office in India on the occasion of any grave public emergency affecting the State, a Clear the Line message to-

(a) his Chief or Senior Minister, and

(b) any of the addressees mentioned in clause (ii) (c).

(iv) In the absence of a Ruler from his State the Chief or Senior Minister is authorised to send Clear the Line messages on an occasion of grave public emergency to the Ruler himself when the Ruler is in India, or to any of the addressees mentioned in clause (ii)(c). The Ruler who receives a Clear the Line message in such circumstances may Clear the Line in reply.

VII.(i) Ruling Princes who are members of the Chamber of Princes in their own right and their ministers are entitled to mark their messages "Priority" in matters of urgency within the limits of their own States.
(ii) In periods of unusual congestion the Govt. of India are prepared to authorise Ruling Princes and their senior ministers specially affected to mark messages "Priority" for any part of India as a temporary measure. The Chief Telegraph Officer in a State will be instructed to inform the Senior Minister of the existence of unusual congestion.
